Statement of Summer Zervos

During the Presidential campaign, Mr. Trump stated that after the election he would file lawsuits against me and other accusers who claimed that he sexually assaulted them.

After he called me a liar I was threatened, bullied and saw my business targeted. I also suffered other repercussions, all because I chose to speak out and tell the truth. He now has the largest bully pulpit in the world and he has not yet taken back his threat to sue me and the others who came forward.

I want to make it clear that even though it is hard and painful to go up against the world's most powerful man, I will continue to speak truth and I refuse to be intimidated into silence. I would like Mr. Trump to retract his statements about me and others calling us liars and stating that what we said was fiction.

Until he does retract, I will continue to speak out and tell the truth. The truth is always the right option and will win out in the end.
