

Marie Stewart

I worked for Resorts for thirty-three years.

I was never written up for misconduct and I was always on time or early for work.

We trained the new hires for ninety days and on the ninetieth day, I received a phone call that I was fired because I didn't meet the "uniform requirements."

I was shocked. I couldn't even talk.

I don't see how they could just disregard us as women and as human beings.
